Race to Equality: Supporting BAME Colleagues in the Workplace

Race to Equality: Supporting BAME Colleagues in the Workplace

Tuesday 24th November 2020 | Online Event

Black, Asian & Ethnic Minority staff are over-qualified and underpromoted in workplaces across the UK. Consequently, neither organisations nor individuals are achieving their potential, with a cost of up to £24bn per annum for the UK economy.

With organisations being pushed to publish their ethnicity pay gap data, it is time to start addressing the disparities that exist in our workplaces.

There are numerous steps you must be taking to tackle race inequality and secure the benefits of diversity for your colleagues and organisation alike.

Join us for 'Race to Equality: Supporting BAME Colleagues in the Workplace' to receive crucial expert guidance on how to foster a more representative workforce and create positive culture change at all levels of your organisation.

Note: We particularly encourage attendance from professionals who do not identify as Black, Asian or Minority Ethnic. The day offers a space for constructive and open discussion, and an opportunity to explore your role in enacting change.

Please note that on-demand video recordings of all sessions will be made available to delegates following the event.

Key speakers:

- Katy Bennett, Diversity and Inclusion Consulting Director, PWC
- Patricia Chinyoka, Diversity & Inclusion Adviser, BITC
- Stephen Parkinson, Senior Partner, Kingsley Napley LLP
- Rob Neil OBE, Inclusion Consultant, Krystal Alliance
- Gamiel Yafai, Managing Director, Diversity Marketplace
- Tony Vickers-Byrne, member of the National Forum for Health and Wellbeing at Work, Trustee at the Royal Society for Public Health and retired Chief Advisor for HR Practice, CIPD

Why attend?

- Learn how to ensure that Black, Asian and Minority Ethnic staff are supported and can do their best work
- Bring new, innovative ideas around creating a positive, inclusive culture in your workplace back to your organisation, with the insight needed to put them into practice
- Hear from leading figures on adapting workplace policy and practice to progress towards racial equality in your workplace
- Earn a CPD certificate for your personal progression
- Enjoy an opportunity to network with expert speakers and your peers

Who should attend?

Anyone with an interest in creating an inclusive workplace, including: employers; HR managers/officers; wellbeing officers; senior managers; consultants; trade unions, staff network leads and representative groups.
